Information Relating to Cookies

The operator of this website is the Chancellery of the Supreme Administrative Court of the Slovak Republic, Trenčianska 56/A, 821 09 Bratislava, Registration No.: 53 857 097 (hereinafter the „Chancellery" or the „the Controller"), which hereby provides you, in connection with the collection and processing of personal data, with information pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data, repealing Directive 95/46/EC (hereinafter the „Regulation").

1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that our website stores on your device (for example, a computer, tablet or smartphone) when you visit the website. When you visit the website again, information about your cookies will already be stored. You will automatically be asked to set the conditions for the processing of cookies again i) after one year has elapsed from your last setting of cookie preferences on our website from the same terminal device, or ii) if you visit our website from a terminal device other than the one on which you have already selected your cookie-processing preferences.
The primary purpose of processing cookies is to enable us to display our website to you in an optimal manner and thereby ensure the proper functioning of the website in accordance with your selected preferences. Cookies may also be blocked or deleted through your internet browser.

2. What cookies are used on our website?

The following cookies are processed on our website:

i) Essential cookies (hereinafter „essential cookies") – these are cookies strictly necessary for the proper functioning of our website. Their purpose is to transmit or facilitate transmission over a network, or they are strictly necessary for the provision of a service that you have expressly requested.

ii) Analytics cookies (hereinafter „analytics cookies") – these are cookies whose purpose is to recognise and count the number of visitors to our website and to obtain information about how the website is used.

A cookie must also be regarded as personal data whenever it contains any identifier which, either alone or in combination with other data, is capable of directly or indirectly identifying a natural person – the website user (Article 4(1) of the Regulation).

3. What does the cookie banner contain?

When you first visit our website, a cookie banner (the so-called first layer of information) will automatically be displayed. Through this banner, we provide you with basic and concise information on the processing of cookies on our website, including the option to choose your own cookie-processing preferences (except for the processing of essential cookies).

Through the cookie banner, we also ask you to grant or withhold your consent to the processing of cookies. By clicking the „Accept all" button, you give consent to the processing of all cookies that we process on the website, except for essential cookies. If you wish us to process only essential cookies about you, click the „Reject all" button. You can also reject or accept cookies separately by clicking, or not clicking, the toggle switch located in the right-hand corner of the cookie banner next to the relevant category of cookies. You must then save your selected preference by clicking the „Save my preferences" button.

You may change your consents at any time by clicking the „Cookies" icon in the bottom bar on the left-hand side of our website.

4. What are the conditions for the processing of cookies?

According to the type of relationship with the Controller, the individual processing operations involving personal data are set out in the table below:

5. To which countries are cookies transferred?

In general, any transfers of personal data to third countries outside the European Union and/or the European Economic Area are restricted unless they are necessary. In the Controller's environment, a cross-border transfer of personal data to third countries that do not ensure an adequate level of personal-data protection within the meaning of the Regulation may occur when using the services of the recipient, namely the analytics service provider (Google). In such a case, a cross-border transfer to the United States of America may occur on the basis of standard contractual clauses approved by the European Commission. Below we provide links to adequate or appropriate safeguards in relation to transfers to the United States of America:

Principles of personal-data processing security and privacy protection in the provision of the services

7. What are your rights in connection with the processing of cookies?

a) Right of access to personal data pursuant to Article 15 of the Regulation

- You have the right to request confirmation as to whether personal data concerning you are being processed. If the Chancellery processes your personal data, it is obliged to grant you access to those personal data and to provide you with the information referred to in Article 15(1) of the Regulation or a copy of those data.
- More information on this right, including a sample request for exercising it, is available here: Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic

b) Right to rectification pursuant to Article 16 of the Regulation

- You have the right to request that the Chancellery rectify inaccurate data or complete incomplete data concerning you.
- More information on this right, including a sample request for exercising it, is available here: Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic

c) Right to restriction of processing pursuant to Article 18 of the Regulation

- You have the right to request restriction of the processing of your personal data for the necessary period depending on the specific situation, in cases where
  - you have contested the accuracy of the personal data with the Chancellery [you have exercised the right to rectification under point b) above];
  - the processing carried out by the Chancellery is unlawful and, instead of erasure, you request restriction of their use;
  - the Chancellery no longer needs them, but you need them for the establishment, exercise or defence of your legal claims;
  - you have exercised the right to object and the personal data concerning you are processed on the legal basis of public interest or legitimate interest.
- More information on this right, including a sample request for exercising it, is available here: Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic

d) Right to object pursuant to Article 21 of the Regulation

- You have the right to object to the processing of your personal data.
- The Chancellery is obliged to assess each such request individually and, if it is demonstrated that your interests, rights and freedoms override the Chancellery's public interest in the specific case, your data will no longer be processed.
- More information on this right, including a sample request for exercising it, is available here: Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic

e) Right to erasure pursuant to Article 17 of the Regulation

- You have the right to request that the Chancellery erase personal data concerning you without undue delay if there is no longer any reason for which they should be processed.
- More information on this right, including a sample request for exercising it, is available here: Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic

f) Right to lodge a motion to initiate proceedings on personal-data protection pursuant to Section 100 of Act No. 18/2018 Coll. on Personal Data Protection and on Amendments and Supplements to Certain Acts, as amended

- If you believe that the processing of personal data concerning you is contrary to the Regulation, you may lodge a complaint with the Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic, Galvaniho 7/B, 821 04 Bratislava, tel. +421 /2/ 3231 3214, e-mail: statny.dozor@pdp.gov.sk.
- More information on initiating proceedings, including a sample motion, is available here: Office for Personal Data Protection of the Slovak Republic

Where personal data are processed on the legal basis of consent, you have the right to withdraw that consent by opening the banner in the bottom left-hand corner by clicking the „Cookies" icon, which will display the banner again, where you can withdraw your consent and confirm the withdrawal by clicking the „Save my preferences" button, or alternatively by clicking the „Reject all" button with one click.

Except for lodging a motion to initiate proceedings, you may exercise your rights at any time by submitting a request addressed to the Controller's Data Protection Officer at: gdpr@nssud.sk or in writing to the Controller's address stated above.

Requests to exercise these rights are handled free of charge.

If a data subject's request is manifestly unfounded or excessive, in particular because of its repetitive nature (repeated request), the Controller has the right to charge a fee reflecting its administrative costs for providing information or a reasonable fee reflecting its administrative costs for notification or for carrying out the requested measure.
